Discussion ensued:
Barton feels like two neighboring conflicting looks with Brian's deck. Changing the color adding the clad. Barton would like more coordination with Billy Dimas unit and suggested wood railings like Billy Dimis would be his preference.

Brina noted most of the high-end condos in the mountain village have metal railings for look and lower maintenance than wood railings.

Jim Tholen felt that other owners were looking for a modernization of the decks. The big round log looks really dated and suggested something more temporary. If everything must match, then we won't get off the big log look.

Kathleen has just got her decks redone. Kathleen likes the look that is there. Barton Prideaux and Bill Dimis have redone their decks.

Billy Dimis likes the log look but would be agreeable to make it look like Brian's deck. Tom Thorpe noted his deck needs to be shored up. He believed the time has come where the log is a different period His deck is the most pronounced in the front and Brian's is in the back.

John has been looking at decks and ballasts.
